

Pepperdine University Institutional Loan Instructions

Our records indicate that you were recently offered a Pepperdine Institutional loan(s). Recently imposed federal regulations require that you complete several steps and review several loan disclosures before the loan can be disbursed to your Student Account. The purpose of the disclosures is to allow you to easily compare loan terms and costs if you were applying for multiple private loans through multiple lenders, notify you of your options for Federal aid, and for you to be aware of the total cost of your loan before the loan is disbursed to your student account.

In order for the loan to be processed in a timely matter please make sure that you carefully read and follow these instructions. It is recommended that you print out this e-mail and use it as a checklist. Incomplete paperwork will not be processed and will be returned to the student.

1. Your loan information has been sent to ECSI, the loan servicer for Pepperdine's Institutional loans. You will need to go to <https://www.ecsi.net/promB5/> to download your loan disclosures and promissory note. Once logged into ECSI's website carefully read through their online instructions and then click on the "begin the electronic signature process" link.
