

GRADUATE STUDIES IN RELIGION AT FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

Florida State University's Department of Religion is a distinguished program in the academic study of religion. Led by prominent scholars, and one of the largest religious studies faculties in the country, the department confers the MA and PhD degrees in Religion. Students pursue study in one of four tracks encompassing a range of historical contexts and geographical regions, including Africa, Asia, Europe, and North America.

- American Religious History
- History & Ethnography of Religions
- Religion, Ethics, & Philosophy
- Religions of Western Antiquity

Students participate in one of the oldest, most prestigious graduate student organized symposia in the country, and collaborate with faculty on research, teaching, and editing internationally acclaimed journals. Recent graduates have secured competitive post-doctoral and tenure-track positions.

Financial Resources

- Generous stipends for accepted graduate students, including MA students
- Tuition and health insurance waivers
- Teaching and research assistantships
- Additional departmental fellowship opportunities in Chinese Buddhism, American Religious History, and Religion, Ethics, & Philosophy
- University grant opportunities are available for exceptionally qualified applicants

How to apply

- To apply: <http://religion.fsu.edu/>
- Applications received by December 15 receive full consideration for fellowships and funding
- For more information, contact Dr. Matthew Goff, director of Graduate Studies

Florida State University has been officially designated as a preeminent research university in the state by the Florida Legislature as a result of having met a set of rigorous benchmarks.

DEPARTMENT OF RELIGION

M03 Dodd Hall | 641 University Way | Tallahassee, FL 32306 | T: (850) 644-1020 | F: (850) 644-7225